About Making it Better

The Making it Better campaign brings people together to discover, celebrate and share stories of Minneapolis and Olmsted County residents who are working to make their communities healthier by increasing access to healthy foods and physical activity opportunities. Making it Better is made possible by funding from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention as part of the Communities Putting Prevention to Work (CPPW) community initiative. As part of this work, the Minnesota Department of Health partnered with the City of Minneapolis Department of Health and Family Support and Olmsted County Public Health to support community initiatives to promote active living and healthy eating.
